WHERE HEALTH PREVAILS

THERE was a sad death this morning, a tragic death, but it was the result of accident and not of disease. It was the first death that had occurred in Tonopah in twenty-three days. What the Bonanza desires to emphasize in this connection is that the climate of Tonopah is as healthy as may be found anywhere on earth. There are approximately 7000 people in the town and the death rate, barring the deplorable accidents that must necessarily occur where a greater portion of the workers are engaged underground, is so remarkably low that it is worthy of consideration far and wide. People do not become ill in Tonopah unless by unusual conditions and these conditions, if the commissioners were to enforce sanitary measures, would be little operative. Tonopah bids welcome to those ill at ease in body and mind. It offers a panacea. It has the altitude, the aridity, the sunshine that make for health and longevity. It does not propose to advertise its advantages to those afflicted with tubercular trouble, but for all who feel "run down" and anaemic, it certainly offers a sure cure or helpfulness.

SILVER'S ROSEATE FUTURE

WE LOOK to see silver remonetized in the near future despite the money lenders, because all the doleful predictions of 1896 regarding silver have been proven fallacies, and because the burden of debt is even now threatening to cause that financial pyramid which rests on a point of gold to topple and fall, says Goodwin's Weekly. We hope that our government will have the sagacity to see and act on the situation. But, aside from that, the mining industry is about the safest that can be engaged in, for the world needs the baser metals to perfect machinery and transportation so that food can be distributed at the least possible cost and all that men are able to purchase supplied at the least possible cost. As to the precious metals, the last year has demonstrated what silver men have always claimed, namely, that the utmost labor and cupidity of man cannot supply enough of both to fill the world's need for money. All wealth comes from the ground.

INSTITUTION POORLY CONDUCTED

THE industrial school at Elko is proving an arrant failure. It seems to be impossible to keep the incorrigible boys in the institution. The state of Nevada went to heavy expense to establish this school, the buildings being constructed like fortresses. It was understood that the inmates were to be given kind treatment and education, but were to be restrained the same as prisoners are in a jail or penitentiary. But they are getting away almost as fast as they are sent there. It is evident that either the administration is lax or the state has not provided sufficient safeguards for retaining the boys. At all events the institution thus far has proven an absolute failure.

ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE

AFTER witnessing the "movie" version of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," one does not wonder that it is being played within prison walls and that the warden of Sing Sing permitted the camera men to take views therein for illustrating the story. This is one of the real educative plays of modern times, not a "problem," that does more harm than good, but one that really benefits, uplifts and alters for good. It all centers about the one expression: "No crook would continue to go wrong if he were given the opportunity to do right."

NEWSPAPERS FOR PUBLICITY

THE Bonanza has received a communication from one of the leading magazines of the United States, requesting a little exploitation in the columns for that periodical in exchange for being placed upon the dead head list, as well as being granted other favors. Funny this publication doesn't advertise in other magazines, instead of coming to the newspapers. Its policy awakens the long slumbering belief that the newspapers are, after all, the best advertising media. People who read magazines do so, as a rule, merely for the continued story of their choice and then toss the publication away. Note the neatness of the magazines that are sent to the Bonanza for the county hospital patients. The majority of them do not have half the leaves cut, if they are of the cutting kind, a sort that is passing out in order to induce purchasers to really peruse them. The Bonanza, cussed and jeered at as it is by those who don't like it and pretend not to read it, gets all mused up five minutes after the delivery boy leaves it or the paper seller disposes of it on the streets. No, we don't feel like advertising the magazine in question. Wouldn't even swap space.

THE MAGICAL WORD IN MINING

THERE is logic as well as truth in the old saying that nothing succeeds like success. Failure generates mistrust, whereas success inspires faith and optimism. This is shown markedly at the present time in the mineral area of Nevada. So many good strikes have been made in that state during the past twelve months that it has grown to be a Mecca for the fortune seeker and a favorite with capitalists seeking investment in mining. This was not the case a few years ago, for then territory now known to be richly mineralized had not been opened by the pick of the prospector, and many prolific ore shoots at present adding largely to the wealth of the world lay hidden and unknown. With the advent of wonderful new camps of real merit, however, a great transformation and change took place. Hitherto lonely hills swarmed with prospectors and the camps were invaded by men not only willing but eager to invest their money in Nevada mining enterprises. Every new strike added to the intensity of the prevailing optimism now proved to have been fully warranted. Gold and silver are being produced by the new as well as the old camps in glittering abundance; and Goldfield and Tonopah may well expect rivals at no very distant date. Some of the recent camps, although still in their swaddling clothes, are very healthy infants and give promise of a robust maturity, says the Denver Mining Record.

Nevada is not alone in its prosperity. The general revival in mining has extended to all of the western mineral states, which are adding to the per capita wealth of the nation at a truly satisfactory rate. This is as it should be; the mining opportunities of the west are being recognized more in accordance with their real importance, and the magical word "success" is focusing attention upon their merits as banner investment propositions. Western mining has plenty of room for more prospectors and investors, for the industry is still merely upon the threshold of a larger development.

GUN TOURNAMENT

The blue rock men of the state will have an opportunity to show their skill at the big shoot which is being planned at Reno for Nevada and California. Clubs from all over the state will be asked to participate and it is hoped that the shoot will meet with the support of all lovers of the sport. It will be one of the biggest events of the kind ever pulled off in the state.
